

CHANGING THE POINT OF VIEW

Read the following passage and rewrite it in first-person perspective.

Emma wanted a kitten more than anything in the world. She had dreamed of the day that she and her parents would adopt a new pet. But Emma's mother insisted they wait until her birthday, which was still two months away. Emma thought of kittens all day. She hoped hers would have blue eyes, fluffy fur, and a happy purr that Emma would feel through her shirt when the kitten would curl up on her chest.

Handwriting practice area with 12 horizontal lines for writing the first-person perspective of the passage.

