TORNADO IN A BOTTLE

Have you ever seen a tornado on the news on television? They are really dangerous! But you can make a tornado safely in your own home. You'll need two plastic bottles, some glue, a large nail, water, food coloring, glitter, and some help from an adult.

_____ 1 _____, get two plastic bottles with screw-on caps. Glue the caps together so the tops are back to back. Ask an adult to help you make a hole through the glued bottle caps using a large nail. _____ 2 _____, fill one bottle about three-quarters full with water.

_____ 3 _____, add food coloring of your choice and some glitter so the tornado will be easy to see. _____ 4 _____, screw the double cap onto the bottle with water in it. Screw on the empty bottle at the top. _____ 5 _____, see if your tornado works! Turn the two bottles upside down. Be sure to use both hands to hold the bottle at the bottom carefully. Move your wrists in a circular motion as if you are drawing circles in the air.

_____ 6 _____, the bottles will turn, and the water inside the bottles will start to swirl. Now, you should see a tornado-like funnel form in the water. But don't worry! You don't need to take shelter from this tornado.
